Study each document 1-11, and answer the individual questions for each in complete sentences. Then in a short essay, answer the following question: Which labels for the Middle Ages best describe the era between 500 and 1400 in Europe: The Dark Ages, the Age of Feudalism, the Age of Faith, or the Golden Age of Europe? In your opinion, which two labels are the best? Discuss and give direct document support for each of your choices—actually using quotes.

Document 1

Feudalism was a political, economic, and social system in which nobles were granted the use of land that legally belonged to the king. In return, the nobles agreed to give their loyalty and military services to the king. The peasants, or serfs, worked the land for the knights and the higher nobles and in return they received protection and a portion of the harvest to feed their families. The image shows the structure of feudal society—a social, political, and economic hierarchy.

1. How did feudalism provide for the security of the people of medieval Europe?
The Manor was the economic side of feudalism. The manor was a mostly self-sufficient system in which the lord’s land (granted by the king) was farmed by his serfs (bound to the land). The manor included not just farmers, but also artisans who provided for the needs of the manor, a chapel, forest for hunting, and pastureland for farm animals.

For the majority of Europeans, life was hard. Serfs, or peasants obligated to work the lord’s land, had very few freedoms. In return for laboring 6 days of the week, they were granted only one day a week to farm to feed their own family. They often also had to pay high rents to use the lord’s land. There was no alternative, since peasants needed the lord’s protection from raiding invaders.

1. How was manorialism different from feudalism?
2. How did medieval farmers deal with the problem of soil exhaustion?
3. Based on this image, state one economic characteristic of the medieval manor. What is being done that can be used for trade, or to make money?
The role of the Church was very large in Medieval Europe. More than any institution, it unified, brought together, Europeans and gave every person a sense of how the world worked. Since political leaders only had local power, the Church was the most powerful institution. This secondary source describes the multiple roles the Church played in the Middle Ages.

Source: http://mnsu.edu/emuseum/history/middleages/church.html

1. What is the role of the Church during the Middle Ages?
2. Why would the Church and religious life have had such a great appeal at this point in history?
In 1095, Pope Urban II issued a call for a holy crusade—a war to recapture the Holy Land. European Christians were called to travel and fight in the Middle East in order to gain back the land conquered by the Muslims.

1. How does this call for a crusade demonstrate the influence of the Pope and the Catholic Church?
Europe in the Middle Ages was a dangerous place. Invasions from Muslims, Mongols, Vikings, and other tribal groups were common. War between lords was also common. The value of protection and warriors created a social code called Chivalry. Knights fought for lords and ladies, and lived by a gentleman-warrior code of Chivalry.

Below are two examples of this Code:

Code of Chivalry

Thou shalt believe all that the Church teaches, and shalt observe all its directions.
Thou shalt defend the Church.
Thou shalt respect all weaknesses, and shalt constitute thyself the defender of them.
Thou shalt love the country in which thou wast born.
Thou shalt not recoil before thine enemy.
Thou shalt make war against the Infidel without cessation, and without mercy.
Thou shalt perform scrupulously thy feudal duties, if they be not contrary to the laws of God.
Thou shalt never lie, and shalt remain faithful to thy pledged word.
Thou shalt be generous, and give largess to everyone.
Thou shalt be everywhere and always the champion of the Right and the Good against Injustice and Evil.

1. What does the Code of Chivalry tell us about medieval values in general? (Make some generalizations. Do not just repeat what the code says!)
Document 6

Medieval Physicians wore outfits made of cloth or leather to protect themselves from the Bubonic Plague. The bird-like beak contained spices and vinegar-soaked cloth to mask the stench of death and decay.

1. Why did the doctors wear costumes such as this one?

Document 7

This excerpt describes Europe in the ninth and tenth centuries.

The barbarians have broken through the ramparts [defensive wall]. The Saracen [Moors] invasions have spread in successive waves over the South. The Hungarians [Magyars] swarm over the Eastern provinces....they sacked town and village, and laid waste in the fields. They burned the churches and then departed with a crowd of captives....There is no longer any trade, only unceasing terror....The peasant has abandoned his ravaged fields to avoid the violence of anarchy. The people have gone to cower [crouch down in fear] in the depths of the forests or in inaccessible regions, or have taken refuge in the high mountains....Society has no longer any government.

Source: The Middle Ages, Frantz Funck-Beinemann, 1922

1. According to the author, what were conditions like in Europe during the 800s?

Document 8

Below in an Anglo-Saxon Chronicle which tells of invasions of England during the 800s.

Year 842 – In this year there was a great slaughter in London and Quentavic and in Rochester
Year 846 – According to their custom the Northmen plundered....and burned the town of Dordrecht...the Northmen, with their boats filled with immense booty [treasure], including both men and goods, returned to their own country...

1. According to this Chronicle, what is happening at this time?
Document 9
Examine these images of a Gothic cathedral built during the Middle Ages.

1. How do these illustrate the power of the Church during the Middle Ages?
What is Gerald promising to do when he becomes a monk?

I hereby renounce my parents, my brothers and relatives, my friends, my possessions….and the vain and empty glory and pleasure of this world. I also renounce my own will, for the will of God. I accept all the hardships of the monastic life, and take the vows of purity, chastity, and poverty, in hope of heaven; and I promise to remain a monk in this monastery all the days of my life.

We learn that an age once traditionally described as “dark” had remarkable vitality and exuberance. Even at its worst it performed the function of guarding, frequently by accident and chance, the knowledge and treasures of what had come before, but even more of it was creative and inventive, and transmitted to later ages great riches of its own.

Medieval culture was imperfect, was restricted to a narrow circle of superior minds….Measure it, however, by the memories and the achievements that it has bequeathed to the modern world, and it will be found not unworthy to rank with those of earlier and later Golden Ages. It flourished in the midst of rude surroundings, fierce passions, and material ambitions…. We must judge them by their philosophy and law, by their poetry and architecture….